NATURE'S NOBLEMEN.

Those Who Are Ambitious to Be Use ful Rather Than Rich.

A young man of ability and great promise recently refused to enter a vocation which would yield him a large income, lest the temptation to become rich might eat up his desire to help his fellow men. He feared that the frantic struggle for wealth and self being waged by the majority of men with whom his position would force him to associate would insensibly draw him into the same vortex of selfishness. He felt that his ideals would become tarnished, that his aspirations would be starved in such an atmosphere, and so he chose a vocation which would enable him to render the greatest service to humanity.

It is a refreshing thing in a material age to see people who are ambitious to be useful rather than rich, who are more eager to help others than to make money. These are nature's noblemen; these are the characters which enrich life and which have pushed civilization up from the savage to the Florence Nightingales and the Lincolns.

One of the most promising things about our civilization today is that, side by side with the greed for gold, is the ever growing passion of humanity for good. The number of people who prefer to be useful to their fellow men rather than to make money is constantly increasing. This passion for makes us believe in the future of the features of interest there.

ARTISTIC TEMPERAMENT.

Defined as a Disease That Afflicts Amateurs.

Gilbert K. Chesterton's "Heretics" contains some of his keenest and most amusing writing. Of great men he observes: "The first rate great man is equal with other men, like Shakespeare. The second rate great man is on his knees to other men, like Whitman. The third rate great man is superior to other men, like Whistler." In the following there may be discovered as much truth as humor:

"The artistic temperament is a disease that afflicts amateurs. It is a dissufficient power of expression to utter and get rid of the element of art in their being. It is healthful to every sane man to utter the art within him; it is essential to every sane man to get rid of the art within him at all costs. Artists of a large and wholesome vitality get rid of their art easily, but in artists of less force the thing becomes a pressure and produces a definite pain. nich is called the artistic te ment. Thus very great artists are able to be ordinary men-men like Shakespeare or Browning. There are many ment, tragedies of vanity or violence or fear, but the great tragedy of the artistic temperament is that it cannot produce any art.

The Balance of Power.

Philadelphia, Pa., Special.-There has been no time for many years when city politics has taken such a live hold on the people of Philadelphia as today The years of the Rothermell-Weaver campaign, the ('row-Asnbridge campaign and the Mc reary-Wright campaign were secondary in this respect, and even ween the committee of 100 was in the full flush of activity were not marked by a greater degree of popular interest. In nearly all parts of the city men who seldom have done more in politics than to vote, and who often did not take the trouble to do that are watching eagerly every phase of the political situation, spouting politics day and night to their neighbor and getting ready to take a hand in the campaign. The indifference which has existed in the campaigns that have preceded the past elections, municipal and general, has almost completely disappeared, and the indiof the shoe dealers. Advice For Football Players

The Ouarterback Must Be a Good Field General. With Plenty of Nerve. How He Should Play His Position Under Varying Conditions.

The quarterback of today in his relationship to a football team must be a good general, must have an abundant supply of football nerve, almost twice as much physical endurance as any other man on the team and an ability to handle the ball cleanly and swiftly. He must be a good general, because the quarterback in these days runs the team. He must have good football nerve to be able to handle punts in the face of the opposing team running down the field to tackle him and to brace up his own team when playing against heavy odds. He must have superior physical endurance on account ! of the many duties required of himnamely, to protect the back field from a runner who has passed the forward line, to catch punts, to give out the signals clearly (taking advantage of his opponent's errors) and to be in every play as an active interferer. Beyond all this, under the new rules he must be able to run well with the ball, but most quarterbacks make good halfbacks when necessary.

center is a most important factor. The quarter cannot practice this too much with his center in order that he need not worry about how high or how low the ball will come from the center or how fast or how slow, but may know that he will receive it with a uniform speed and at one height constantly thereby feeling that he has only to consider how quickly he may get the ball to the runner. The quarter should coach his center from time to time, letting him know when the ball is not coming exactly right and showing him it. In case of a fumble between center the sense. Now, what is the difference and quarter (and this should be stamped on every quarter's heart) drop on the ball. Don't try to pick it up.

The quarter must hurry his backs, at all times keeping the ball in front of them, never making them wait for it, but rather work to get it. This is especially true on what is known as a straight buck or quick opening-that is, when either half takes the ball through the line between guard and tackle on his own side of the center. In this case the quarter should toss the ball as soon as his hands have closed on it directly to the half who has started for the opening without letting his hands come in as far as his body. Following Old Abe came John Clay just where and at what speed he wants and Jim Ross. Clay was injured in a fall on the Kentucky Association track while riding War Jig, and after his recovery from these injuries he became a successful trainer and is today a wealthy real estate dealer in Lexing. ton. Jim Ross rode the noted horse, Wanderer, in all his races. John riding the noted horse Longfellow at Long Branch for the Mammouth Cup in 1871. The next year William Walker and Noah Heywood sprang into prominence as successful jockeys. The former piloted Broeck in all his record breaking races, was for many years trainer for John L. Madden's racing stable and is at pres. ent a trainer of a public stable.

Following these comes Isaac Murphy without doubt the greatest jockey, either white or black, the world ever saw. He gained international fame when he rode Falsetto to victory in the Travers stakes at Saratoga in 1879, and for years to follow Murphy was the brightest star of the turf He won the Suburban bandicap on Savator and the American Derby four times. During his career in the saddle Murphy won over 500 races. There were many other colored jockeys who have either retired or been ruled off the turf for connection in some scandal. It costs only ten cents and its worth is without value.

Those Southern students at Purdue University who are frothing at the mouth, because of the proposed visit of Booker Washington, are hardly to be taken seriously. If they are sincere. they will leave Purdue instanter, for these gentlemen doubtless know that they are being educated at the expense of Negro as well as white tax payers.

LESSON III, FOURTH QUARTER, INTER-NATIONAL SERIES, OCT. 15.

Text of the Lesson, Ez. i, 1-11-Memory Verses, 5, 6-Golden Text, Ps. exxvi, 3-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1905, by American Press Association.]
The kingdoms of this world had passed from the head of gold, Babylon, to the breast and arms of silver, the Medes and Persians (Dan. ii, 32, 37-39). The lion had given place to the bear (Dan. vii, 4, 5), which bear, although so described in reference to other nations, is spoken of as a ram, a harmless domestic animal, in reference to Israel because of the kindness of Cyrus and Darius to Daniel's people (Dan. viii, 20). The seventy years of Judah's captivity were ended, and the time had C. M C. WILLIS, come for her restoration, according to Jer. xxix, 10. Not only had the restoration been foretold, but the very king who should accomplish it had been mentioned by name some 200 years before (Isa, xliv, 28; xlv, 1).

Josiah, one of the good kings of Judah, was mentioned by name about 300 years before he was born (I Kings xiii, for the many beautiful floral tributes. 2; II Kings xxiii, 15-17). Besides these five others are named in Scripture before their birth. Let the scholars tell their names. Every thought and purpose of God will surely be fulfilled; His counsel will stand, and He will do all His pleasure (Isa. xiv, 24; xlvi, 10; Ps. trious young man (with wheel) to act | xxxiii, 11). When His time has come | Old and New Phones, 1173, He stirs the hearts of whom He pleaseth to accomplish His pleasure. He appearance and ready talkers Salary may have used Daniel, His servant at and commission both to right parties. the court of Cyrus, to enlighten Cyrus concerning His purpose, but He alone could make Cyrus willing. Throughout the whole Bible it is most fascinating and inspiring and leads to heartfelt adoration of Jehovah to watch Him working, whether as Creator or Redeemer, Israel's Messiah, the Great Head of the church or the King of kings and Lord of lords. Notice in the first two verses of our lesson such statements as "the word of the Lord," "the Lord stirred up," "the Lord hath given me" and "He hath charged me," then see the hearty obedience of Cyrus to the word of the Lord.

The central topic of the book of Ezra is the rebuilding of the house of the Lord at Jerusalem, as will be seen more fully in our next lesson, and this house is mentioned at least fifty times in the book. We cannot think of Israel the members were out and lots of as a nation apart from the temple or tabernacle, for no sooner had God broidery club, where one may find brought them out of Egypt than He anything new in the art The gave commands to Moses to have them build Him a sanctuary that He might dwell among them (Ex. xxv, 8). While Israel is for the present blinded, the fullness of the gentiles is being gathered, and another house is being builddainty as usual and the prizes were ed, a living temple made of living stones, with which we have to do who has been connected so long (Rom. xi, 25, 26; Eph. ii, 19-22; I Pet.

To gather the material for this building, the church, the gospel must be preached everywhere, and, as in the days of Cyrus, so now the word is, Let him go who is willing, and God will be with him, and whosoever reless we are living to complete the church, the body of Christ, we are not of much use. If we can neither go nor give we can by earnest, believing prayer work through those who have gone part of the earth.

In verses 5 and 6 we see the willing ones whom God made willing going forth and the others helping with willing offerings, for God was working (Phil. ii. 13). If there be first a willing mind it is accepted according to that a man hath and not according to us to do as of the ability which He giveth (II Cor. viii, 12; I Pet. iv, 11). If we leave us untalented, but we must be

Although the Lord gave the vessels of his house at Jerusalem as well as His people into the hands of other nations for a time (Dan. i, 1, 2; Jer. xii, 7), He never ceased to care for them, and the man who dared to ill treat them was slain that same night (Dan. v, 2, 30). He cares for each one of His redeemed, even though they may be in man's estimation vessels of a second sort or even lowlier, and whoever touches one of them touches Himself 4. A gentile handing over these treasures to a Jew makes us think of the queen of Sheba bringing presents to King Solomon and the wise men of the east bringing gifts to the Child Jesus as the King of the Jews and points on-

Ps. lxxii, 10, 11). We are not surprised to read of gold and silver basins and chargers and other vessels, but what about the nine and twenty knives? Well, they were all the Lord's property and belonged to His house, and He had need of them. We do not enjoy the "cutting things" as much as those which bring us what we call "something good," but He knoweth best, and we ought to believe Rom. viii, 28, with its "a'l things." Let us be content to be anything He wants us, even one of the unnamed "other vessels," and rejoice to be His property under any circumstances. The lesson closes with the words "from Babylon unto Jerusalem," which is a great deal better than the other way, as Babylon stands for religiousness without God and reaches from Cain to the end of this age. Let us give heed to Rev. xviii, 4; II Cor. vi, 14-16.

THE TEXAN RANGERS.

First Fight With Indians In Which Revolvers Were Used. John Coffee Hays was reared on a farm in Wilson county, Tenn., being born there in 1817. At the age of eighteen he migrated to Texas, where, during the struggle of that Mexican province for independence, he served with distinction in the military campaign conducted by General Sam-Houston, being noted for his bravery and strategy. After the termination of that conflict Hays was placed in command of the small regular force that was f shortly afterward organized and be came known to fame as the Texan rangers. Many were the desperate fights in which he was engaged with the fierce Comanches and border Indians, and innumerable were the perils which he encountered. He was the first to supply an armed force with Colt's revolvers for use in battle.

The Indian mode of warfare in those early days was to draw their enemy's fire and then sweep down upon them like a whirlwind, plying their bows and using their long spears with deadly effect. So cautious were they in this respect that they soon distinguished the double barreled gun when it was brought into use and only approached when they were sure that such weapons had been emptied. On the first occasion when Hays and his rangers, armed with the revolvers, met a band on the warpath they allowed their fire to be liberally drawn, and then the Indians charged with exultant cries, but when the revolver was brought into play at close quarters the panic that ensued was absolute and the destruc tion of the Indians complete. Hays was colonel of the First Texan regiment, the nucleus of which was formed of veteran rangers.

CEMETERY VAULTS.

The Building of Them Is & Profes-

The vault was the size of the usual cemetery vault-one small room, roofed, floored and walled with granite, an said it had cost $25,000.

"But there is no carving on it," objected the man who thought of buying a lot. "It is as plain as a pipestem, and all the stone it contains could be bought for $10,000 or less."

"True, true," said the undertaker, And he pointed to another vault that might have been the first one's twin "That only cost $15,000," he said, "a saving of $10,000, but the broker who bought it got abominably stuck. "The cheap vault, you see, was built, as a house is, by an architect and an ordinary builder. It looks good. It will last for centuries. But, by Jove, it leaks like a sieve! After every storm it is flooded, and two of the cemetery attendants have to charge up a day's time against the owner for cleaning it out. "Vault building is a profession in itself. To make for a vault a waterproof roof of enormous granite slabs is an art that only the vault builder understands. When the ordinary builder, no matter how proficient he may be, undertakes this task he fails lamentably. The vault leaks. After every storm its floor is flooded. "Therefore, if ever you invest in a vault let a specialist erect it for you. He will charge you a good many thousands extra, but he will give you a good, satisfactory job."-New York

Docile Ducks of the Chinese.

In China the duck is much esteemed as an article of diet, and what may be called duck farms are common on most of the rivers. The birds are taught to hunt for their food, and the rearing of them costs little. They are kept in boats with a platform or deck extending outward on each side. These boats are taken to the shallow, marshy parts by the banks of the streams, and the ducks are then driven ashore to enjoy themselves in the mud flats. So well are the birds trained that at a given signal they cease eating and follow their leader back into the boat, where they lie during the night. Ducks preserved by being salted are a favorite food with the well to do.

Indian Remedies.

The Indian pharmacopoeia comprised thoroughwort, spurge and Indian hemp, used as emetics; the bark of the horse chestnut and butternut, used as cathartics. They were also acquainted with many poisons, most of which were used on their weapons. For asthma they employed tobacco and sassafras, for coughs slippery elm, for dropsy the wild gooseberry, for wounds powdered puff balls. They treated boils with onion poultices.

Training an Orator.

It seems at one period the Lews orator shut himself in a dark room, wrapped a plaid round him, lay on his back and placed a large stone on the pit of his stomach. After about from twelve to twenty-four hours of this he was ready for his speech.-London Saturday Review.

The Bargain. Littleton-What under the canopy are you going to do with all that white satin? Mrs. Littleton-Why, it's for baby! It was such a bargain. I knew I'd never find any so cheap again, and it will be lovely for her wedding gown. -Brooklyn Life.

He Knew. "Come, Willie," said mother at the table, "sit up like a man." "Why, mother," replied Willie, "men sit down for their food; it's only dogs that sit up."-Exchange.
